THINGS HEARD AND SEEN Errors in following the directions given by physicians for the treatment of patients in the way justice is dealt out. While the generally lead to mourning and a hearse, lawyers are arguing and turning every sult in new discoveries that prove val- gate, who everybody believes made away uable additions to the lore of materia med- with three or four hundred thousand dolica. An instance of the latter variety oc- lars, there was sentenced in the court curred in New York the other day and across the way, to three years in the penihalf of Washington is laughing over it, for it was funny in the extreme. A well-known and philarthropic gentleman who known and philarthropic gentleman who lived in Washington for many years and whose name is identified with the promotion of every successful charity in the District is now residing in New York. His family of notably lovely daughters re- a year ago, has been elected to the Illinois mains here in the old residence, but one of them is always with the father in New York, the girls taking turn and turn about in their visiting. One of them is with the father at present and since her arrival in visitation of carbuncles, one appearing on his kree and two on his neck. Mr. S. was avail, and at last an eminent German phy-sician now visiting in America was called in. His knowledge of English was as poor as his patient's understanding of German, but the twain chattered away volubly and the daughter chimed in occasionally until the conversation left an indefinite and hazy impression of something mixed on the the doctor had departed. This was especially the case regarding the physician's directions, the only predominant portion of them that was remembered being something in connection with soft-boiled eggs. There was a sick room consultation over the intention of the medico and at last the positices of soft-boiled eggs to be applied to the carbuncles. They were prepared and applied. All night long Mr. S. tossed in pain. The applications were drawing like muscular dentists every moment of like muscular dentists every moment of the time. Indeed, they did so well that when morning came the dutiful daughter applied fresh preparations of a similar character. By noon the carbuncles were on their way toward getting well, having lost all their power for pain. The father and daughter were overjoyed and when the great German specialist called again in the afternoon he was greeted with a duet of thankful appreciation. "Oh, doctor, those poultices were splen-did. They have absolutely cured the carbuncles," exclaimed the daughter.

The doctor appeared nonplussed. He had ordered no poultices, he said, and wanted to know what they had used. "Why, did you not tell us to apply poultices of soft-boiled eggs?"

The physician burst into a hearty laugh and shook with mirth for five minutes. When he could speak he beamed benignantly upon his astonished friends.
"My teer young leddy," he remarked, "I set he shut eat de sof poll eggs."
An examination, however, astonished the doctor. The unbeard-of treatment had effectually removed all dangerous quaities from the painful visitants.

"Vell," said the doctor, "nutting else dot I knew off voult hef done dot. I vill re-

It will take the funny men some little time to get down to all the peculiar names in the Fifty-fourth Congress. Probably the roll will be called a number of times before the name of Sauerhering will divest itself of "an ancient and fish-like" sound. The wearer of this name is one of the accidents of the late election. He lives at Mayville, Wis., and his home adjoins that of Mr. Barwig, the present member of Congress from the second Wisconsin district, who was defeated by Mr. Sauerhering in the late unpleasantness. Mr. S. is a native of Wisconsin; his father went to that state in 1848, and started in the drug business. The old gentleman now devotes most of his time to old settler associations and telling the younger genera-tion of the early history of the badger state. The son still continues the drug business, started so long ago. For several years Mr. Sauerhering has been an active republican. He is a young man, but thirty-one years of uge, and while he is not the youngest member of the next House, he will be well down toward the foot of the column. It happened that when the republican managers of the second district were looking about for some one to carry the banner of a forlern hope in the solid democratic district-Mr. Barwig carried it two years ago by about 6,400 majority—some one said, "let's give it to Ed.," and so the young druggist of the peculiar name was selected. He made a campaign such as many another made, without hope of success. He circulated his cards, which bore a picture of himself, and this inscrip-tion: "Ed. Sauerhering, republican candidegree of intelligence. For a time he will be asked for by visitors to the Capitol, as his name will give him some prominence, much the same as was the case with Quigg of New York. There seems to be some lack of equity but on the other hand they sometimes re- point to secure the release of Capt. How-date for member of Congress, second dis-trict, Mayville, Wis." To everybody's sur-prise he was elected by a majority over Barwig of 265. Mr. Sauerhering is not likely to remain in Congress long. The small majority by which he was elected can probably be easily overcome in such a strong democratic district as that rep-resented by Mr. Barwig, unless, perhaps, the republicans should rearrange the dis-looking man, with more than the ordinary

Somehow, this seems a little out of pro-. Alex. J. Jones, who was connected with the Associated Press in Washington about legislature. It is explained that he escaped the landslide, he being a democrat, because the democratic voters were each privileged to vote three times for him. It is understood that in better times he will make the race for Congress, and those who know his style have no doubt of his ultimate success.
